$400,000 For Tocks Island:

Walter Asks Funds For River Basin Project Plan

(Special To The Daily Record)

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Rep. Francis E. Walter went before the House Appropriations Committee yesterday with a formal request for planning and survey funds for Tocks Island Dam and reservoir and Beltville Dam.

A public works sub-committee of the Appropriations Committee was slated today to open public hearings on funds for the Corps of Engineers.

Walter, who as early as last August urged special appropriations for the two projects in the Delaware River Basin, said his request has the support of the Basin Commission and the Corps of Engineers.

$400,000 For Tocks Island
Specifically, Walter asked $400,000 for Tocks Island and $170,000 for the Beltville Dam, the money to be used by the Corps of Engineers as planning funds.

"These two projects are needed to deal with the crisis in the most populous region of this nation," Walter told the sub-committee, headed by Rep. Clarence Cannon, Dem. of Missouri.

"The importance of the Tocks Island project cannot, in my opinion, be overstated," Walter explained. "It is the only project that can meet a substantial portion of the water supply needs of the Philadelphia metropolitan area. It is the one project from which New Jersey can, in the near future, divert the substantial waters it will need in its northern and central areas that are not in the Delaware Basin. New Jersey is now constructing one reservoir in the Raritan Basin (the Round Valley Project) that will never be fully operable without Delaware Water from Tocks Island," the Easton congressman stressed.

Beltville Need
Pointing out that the Beltville project is the first of eight key multi-purpose reservoirs to be developed in the Delaware River Basin, Walter said the need of funds for this project is self-explanatory.

"The augmented flows from the Beltville project will meet the water supply needs of the Allentown - Bethlehem - Easton metropolitan area before flowing into the main stream," Walter said.

Walter gave a detailed history of the development of the Delaware River Basin and the number of crises that have occurred in the past 50 years.

Among them, "the horrendous floods of August 19, 1955, which set into motion two great developments that should result, in the near future, in the wise management and equitable apportionment of the waters of this great basin."

Cooperation Mandatory

The dean of the Pennsylvania delegation, author of the Delaware River Basin compact, said the floods "forced the states of the basin to realize that the years from 1920 to 1950 could never be recaptured, and that interstate cooperation to develop the basin's water resources was mandatory if the basin and the area that the waters of the basin serve were to survive."

The committee was told by Walter that the water demands of the Delaware area "which now occasionally suffers from water shortages, will quadruple in the next 50 years."

"I don't think I am overstating my case when I say that critical areas of the Delaware Basin, areas containing about 6 million persons and more than 10,000 industrial plants are facing a water crisis," the Easton congressman declared.

He concluded by explaining the precedent for allocating funds before Congress authorizes a project, and also noted that President Kennedy's budget message permits the "set-aside" for high priority projects.

Trial Of Former Gov. Fine On Tax Evasion Set Today

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former Gov. John S. Fine, a judge more than 20 years, goes on trial in U.S. District Court here Tuesday on a charge of tax evasion. The 68-year-old former Republican leader is accused of evading $45,000 in federal income taxes over a three-year period after leaving the governor's office in January 1955.

Also to be tried before Judge Frederick V. Follmer is Donald P. Morgan of Malvern, brother of Fine's deceased first wife.

The government charges that Morgan prepared Fine's allegedly false tax returns for 1955, 1956 and 1957 while managing the former chief executive's dairy farm at Loyalville, Luzerne County.

Fine also is under indictment in the alleged evasion of $20,430 worth of corporate taxes by the Newport Excavating Co., a strip mining firm in Nanticoke.

U.S. Atty. Bernard Brown said Fine will be tried on the corporate tax charge at a later date.

Brown will be assisted in the prosecution of the case by John Burke and Robert Purl, deputies in the U.S. attorney general's office in Washington.

Fine entered innocent pleas to the indictments at an arraignment before Follmer in February.

Fine was Pennsylvania's 100th governor and the last Republican to hold that office.

Prior to his election as governor in 1950 he served more than two decades as a judge in Luzerne County and the State Superior Court.

What's In A Name?

HELL, Mich. (AP) — Now that Hell is on the map, people are finding it an attractive place to go.

The result? A business boom in Hell.

Hell soon will have its first motel.

Hell's new Chamber of Commerce is in business.

Hell's post office has put in a new substitution.

There's an awful lot going on in Hell.

Hell's Chamber of Commerce president, Mel Reinhardt, is giving the devil its due. He credits much of the business boom to the Michigan State Highway Department. It recently put Hell, a community of about 300 near Detroit, on the official state map.

A little later the post office went up. And visitors to Hell were able to send post cards to their friends with authentic post marks.

Mrs. Beulah Dewey, who thinks Hell is a pretty nice place to live, is postmistress.

But the people who live in Hell do have one complaint. There aren't enough road signs, they say, telling people how to go to Hell.

SEC Probe Hits Securities Salesmen

Testimony Indicates Some Have Only 24 Hrs. Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of his 4,700 salesmen work for him in their spare time and begin soliciting after 24 hours' training, a mutual fund distributor told a government inquiry into securities salesmanship Monday.

Walter Benedict, president of Investors Planning Corp. of America, said his whole organization is geared to this moonlight operation. The firm, he added, keeps its offices open evenings so salesmen can meet with their supervisors.

If he had to abide by New York Stock Exchange rules which forbid brokerage salesmen from holding second jobs, Benedict testified, "I would say it would be catastrophic for us."

No Improper Sales

He added that he knows of no improper sales by members of his organization and said any stemmed from misunderstandings.

Benedict was the first industry witness as the Securities and Exchange Commission opened its first broad public investigation of the securities business since 1934. The inquiry into the training, supervision and sales practices of securities salesmen is expected to last two weeks.

The hearing opened with SEC officials pointing out the lack of government control over individual securities salesmen and their sales techniques.

"We have practically no power over salesmen" of mutual funds, said Allan F. Conwell, the SEC's director of corporate regulation. Philip A. Loomis Jr., the SEC's director of trading and exchanges, said the agency is powerless to deal with some brokerage abuses because it can bar only salesmen found violating securities laws. Loomis' testimony touched on brokerage dealings, which are to come up later. The start of the inquiry is focused on mutual funds.

Benedict's firm sells shares of three mutual funds with total assets of about $50 million. The funds are National Investors Corp., Axa-Houghton Fund B and Axa Science and Electronics Fund. IPC has headquarters in New York City and branch offices in Buffalo, N.Y., Hackensack, N.J., Baltimore, Md., and Arlington, Va.

24 Hour Course

Benedict said all salesmen take a 24-hour course and then must pass an examination administered by the National Association of Securities Dealers before they can begin soliciting business. In addition, he testified, about half of IPC's prospective salesmen take an additional 10-hour refresher course before undergoing the examination.

Conwell said the mutual fund business has mushroomed from $7.8-billion investment in late 1955 to a $31.8-billion giant by the end of last year. Most of the investors, he said, operate on a small scale—the average account being $3,800, with 75 per cent of the investors having incomes of $10,000 a year or less.

Where an individual salesman makes false claims in selling mutual funds, Conwell said, all the SEC can do is act against his parent firm. But his, he said, is an impractical way of getting at an individual salesman.

Where a salesman deals in regular brokerage business in addition to mutual funds, he is subject to regulations of separate stock exchanges and the National Association of Securities Dealers. But there is no general test of qualification for mutual fund salesmen, Conwell said.

No Supervision

He added that there is no supervision whatsoever for captive sales organizations that specialize in a particular mutual fund or funds of specialized companies. These firms, Conwell said, make a big point of door-to-door selling drives.

Loomis testified that some supposedly respectable brokerage houses use "boiler room" tactics although he said this high-pressure sales method through long-distance phone calls has generally died out in the past five years. It is still used by small firms on a limited scale, he said.

The SEC official said he believes the hearing will show "an urgent need for raising brokerage standards and for more effective requirements for entry into the business."

Loomis cited the case of one brokerage proprietor who had a record of armed robbery but the SEC was powerless to keep him out of the business since he violated no securities laws.

The SEC, Loomis said, should recommend higher standards for brokerage employees and set a minimum requirement for the amount of capital that must be provided by a new firm. Federal law now sets no minimum-capital requirement, but limits debts to 20 times assets.

The SEC's problems, Loomis said, has been increased by the growth of registered brokerage salesmen from 24,800 to 102,000 since World War II and a jump in branch offices operated by brokerage firms in the past decade from 1,150 to 4,320.

Pulitzer Prize Winners Are Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — A Florida newspaper, the Panama City News-Herald, Monday won the 1962 Pulitzer Prize for meritorious service, on the basis of a three-year campaign against entrenched corruption in the area the newspaper serves.

The editorial award went to a California editor and publisher for calling public attention to activities of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society.

Walter Lippmann, 72-year-old veteran columnist for the New York Herald Tribune Syndicate, became a winner for the second time, being cited for wise and responsible international reporting. He won a special Pulitzer citation in 1958.

Drama Prize

Broadway's smash hit, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," won the drama prize. The musical stars Robert Morse as an aggressive young businessman, and Rudy Vallee as a veteran tycoon, and was written by Abe Burrows, Jack Weinstock and Willie Gilbert, with musical score by Frank Loesser. It already had won awards from the New York Drama Critics Circle and the American Theater Wing.

The prize for fiction went to Edwin O'Connor for "The Edge of Sadness," the story of an Irish-American priest in a rundown Boston parish.

In the new Pulitzer Prize category of general non-fiction, the award was won for the first time by Theodore H. White, who celebrated his 47th birthday Sunday, for "The Making of the President, 1960," an account of the last presidential campaign.

"I just feel good that a journalist's book has been recognized in the awards," White said.

The 1962 prize for news photography went to Paul Vathis of the Harrisburg, Pa., Bureau of The Associated Press, for a picture of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, heads bowed, backs to the camera during a conference at Camp David, Md., on April 22, 1961. It was the fifth Pulitzer prize in photography won by The Associated Press.

The 46th annual Pulitzer Prizes were awarded by the trustees of Columbia University on recommendation of the Advisory Board on Pulitzer Prizes. They are administered by the graduate school of journalism under terms of the will of the late publisher Joseph Pulitzer.

Arts and Letters

Other Pulitzer awards in the fields of arts and letters:

History—Lawrence H. Gipson, 81, historian at Lehigh University, for "The Triumphant Empire: Thunderclods Gather in the West, 1763-1766," volume 10 of a series dealing with the British empire before the American Revolution.

Poetry—Alan Dugan, 39, New York City, for his "Poems."

Music—Robert Ward, 44, Cleveland-born artist who now lives in Nyack, N.Y., for "The Crucible," a three-act opera first performed Oct. 26, 1961, at New York City Center. It is based on a play by Arthur Miller.

MEETS WITH NEGRO LEADERS—Edward (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of President Kennedy, meets in Boston with a delegation of religious, social and civic leaders to make placement plans for any Negro families who accept one-way bus rides from the South to Boston. Kennedy, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator, called the meeting after segregationist groups said they were sending Negroes to Hyannis Port, Mass., summer home of the President. (AP Wirephoto)

Ulbricht Refutes Possibility Of Pact On Berlin Access

MOSCOW (AP)—East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht dashed cold water Monday on hopes for an early Berlin settlement. He said in a Pravda interview that East Germany never will accept international control of the access routes to Communist-surrounded West Berlin.

Establishment of such control is a key feature in reports of current U.S.-Soviet contacts on the future of the divided city 110 miles inside East Germany.

Out Of Question

"It is out of the question," Ulbricht asserted, "that access to the NATO military base in West Berlin could be insured."

The interview, given to Pavil Satyukov, editor of Pravda, the Communist party organ, and to Alexei Adzhubel, editor of the government newspaper Izvestia, invited speculation here that the Soviet government wanted all its old positions restated publicly once again.

In a summary of the interview, the official Soviet news agency Tass called Ulbricht's views realistic.

Offsets Claims

The tenor of the interview clearly tended to offset claims by some Western spokesmen that the Soviet Union is eager for a Berlin settlement and is prepared to make concessions to get one.

Ulbricht indicated there was room for discussion on the status of Berlin and access routes to the city. But the limits he set raised the question of just what the West would gain from negotiations.

Prepared Interview

The interview, given several days ago, was timed to the approximate date of the signing of the World War II European armistice 17 years ago. It was a curious interview in which the Soviet editors often presented Ulbricht with ready-made answers.

Ulbricht declared East Germany could not accept the idea of an international commission actually administering the access routes.

He said East Germany is willing to permit an international organ to discuss disputes over approach "generous, reasonable and realistic."

Rep. Walter Announces Scholarships

(Special To The Daily Record)

WASHINGTON — Rep. Francis E. Walter yesterday announced the selection of Miss Clara Barbara Bush, of Pocono Lake and Miss Sonia Helen Gross, of Freemansburg for Fulbright-Hays scholarships. The selections were made by the State Dept.

Miss Bush will study painting at Cole Es Beaux Arts in Paris and Miss Gross will study French language and literature at the University of Besancon in France.

The Fulbright-Hays Act is designed to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries, Walter explained.

Laotians Concede Loss Of Nam Tha; Chide U. S. Stand

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The royal Laotian government Monday conceded loss of strategic Nam Tha to a pro-Communist rebel offensive—with an I told-you-so aside to the United States. It charged the Red aim is to set Laos ablaze with civil war.

"Everybody should now realize that good faith of the Communists is illusory," said Information Minister Bouasav Nosavane.

Diplomats wondered whether there would be a reappraisal of efforts by the United States to force Premier Prince Boun Oum's pro-Western regime to step down in favor of a unity coalition of Communists, conservatives and neutralists.

Actions Pondered

The pressure has included suspension of $3 million in monthly economic aid and acting Foreign Minister Sisouk Na Champassak asserted the government received indications the United States decided last Monday to curtail military aid as well.

"If the United States cuts military aid, Laos would be thrown in the other camp and we would be going toward suicide," Sisouk said.

Red-led forces captured Nam Tha and won undisputed possession of the last of the Laotian territory fronting on Red China in an attack that violated both a 1961 cease-fire order and pacific pledges of the rebel leaders, neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and Prince Souphanouvong of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

The acting foreign minister charged that the aim was "to rekindle the (civil) war throughout Laos."

Started In January

Sisouk said at least 10 battalions of troops from Red China and Communist North Viet Nam—perhaps 6,000 men—took part in the drive on Nam Tha, which the Pathet Lao placed under siege last January.

The battle cost the government a provincial capital which the Laotian army's commander in chief, Maj. Gen. Bouleuth Sani-chanh, once said would be defended to the death.

The only overland escape route from Nam Tha, 20 miles south of the Red China border, is a road that leads 150 miles southwestward to Houei Sai, near the frontier of pro-Western Thailand.

Twelve U.S. military advisers who served in Nam Tha during the Pathet Lao siege escaped by helicopter.

Soviet Supply Planes

Sisouk said Soviet supply planes are now landing at both Muong Sing and Nam Tha, extending a service which has been based at Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital. The military action found both Prince Boun Oum and Prince Souvanna out of the country.

Boun Oum and his strong man deputy, Gen. Phoumi Nosavane, were in Singapore on a tour of Southeast Asian nations to get help to replace that which the United States is withholding. Souvanna, designated premier under the coalition scheme approved by the 14-nation Geneva Laotian conference last year, is visiting in Paris.

Souvanna and the Red Prince Souphanouvong are half-brothers. The government's chief argument against the projected coalition is that Souvanna is unable to control his half-brother's faction and entry of the Communists in the Cabinet would mean eventual drift of Laos into the Communist camp.

Breakdown Delays Shortway

WORK ON THE Keystone Shortway from Stroudsburg to Bartonsville has been temporarily held up by a breakdown on the cement mixing and pouring machine, a reliable source told The Daily Record last night.

It was learned that the south lane of the new highway is ready for the laying of cement, but the work was stopped due to the breakdown. The spokesman said that the Marsolini Construction Co., contractors for the 3.28 miles of highway, dismantled the motor on the machine so it would be in first class condition.

When the motor was re-assembled and started a piston rod broke. This necessitated dismantling the motor again to replace the broken part.

Marsolini has moved some of his grading equipment from the area. It was taken to another road construction job in DuPont and will be returned to the Stroudsburg job in the next couple of weeks.

A. Victor Cesare, engineer of District Five, Pennsylvania Department of Highways, Allentown, said he knew nothing of a holdup in the work on the highway. He said his last report indicated the contractors in the area are working and are ahead of schedule.

Hospital Goal $118,500 Off

Special Appeal To Drive Workers

IN A SPECIAL appeal to all workers in the Monroe County General Hospital Expansion Program, general chairman Arlington W. Williams urged all workers in all divisions to press forward and finish the job by Friday night.

"We still have more than $100,000 to go in order to reach our victory figure of $1,000,000," said the general chairman. "We know that there are still several thousand residents of the county who are ready and willing to make up that amount if the workers will only call on them and give them the opportunity."

In the Family Gifts division of the Program, donors are urged to consider a gift based on one hour's pay per month for thirty-six months. This is the same individual goal which had been placed before all employed persons contacted in Business, Industry, Government and Schools divisions. "Of course, we will be happy for whatever gift is given—however," the chairman added, "wherever possible, we do need a three-year dedicated gift in order to reach our goal."

Friday night at the East Stroudsburg State College, members of all divisions will meet for the final report and a hoped-for Victory Meeting. The affair begins at 7:00 p. m. and will feature special entertainment with Fred Waring as master of ceremonies.

Williams stated that at this time about 2,000 donors have contributed some $882,500 and said that, "there are at least 2,000 additional GOOD NEIGHBORS in Monroe County who will want to support us in this effort to provide these most needed hospital facilities."

In order to assure everyone the opportunity of participating in this program, Williams urged the county residents who have not yet been called upon to call the campaign office—HA 1-4913 and a special worker will call upon them. Williams said, "Although we have probably 700 volunteers with us now, there will still be some people who might be missed for some reason or another."

Suspended Sentence Given Ames In Car-Hit Death

CHARLES R. Ames, 42, Gouldsboro RD 1, yesterday received suspended sentences and was fined a total of $400 and costs on two charges growing out of the death of Patrick J. Scanlon, 87, Tobyhanna, in March of this year.

Judge Fred W. Davis placed Ames on probation for one year on each of the counts — failure to stop at the scene of an accident and failure to identify himself — and said that only Ames' good reputation kept him from a jail term.

Ames, father of seven children, was represented by Atty. Maxwell H. Cohen of Stroudsburg, who called three character witnesses on Ames' behalf.

They were Rev. Edward L. Brill, pastor of Gouldsboro and Daleville Methodist Churches; George H. Schalk, former constable in Covington Township, Lackawanna County, and Clyde Jones, the current constable.

All testified that Ames was a law-abiding citizen. In addition, Schalk, a dispatcher for Palmer Transportation Co., Moscow, RD 3, said he knew Ames' reputation as a truck driver and that he had never heard a complaint about his driving.

Pleaded Clemency Cohen, pleading for clemency for Ames, said the man "panicked" after his car hit Scanlon on Route 611 near its intersection with Route 400.

Cohen pointed out that under the law it is "mandatory" that Ames lose his driver's license and said this punishment will cost Ames his job as a truck driver, the only kind of work, Cohen said, that Ames knows.

It was brought out during brief testimony by Trooper Donald J. Henzey of the Mt. Pocono State Police barracks that there would have been no grounds for prosecution of Ames if he had not left the scene of the accident.

Martius Van Valkenburg, 47, Little Falls, N. Y., who pleaded guilty to drunken driving, was fined $300 and costs. Jack Cardwell, 31, of 452 Normal St., East Stroudsburg, also pleaded guilty to a drunken driving charge and was returned to Monroe County Jail in default of $300 fine and costs. Both men were arrested last month by East Stroudsburg police.

James D. Smith, 18, Mt. Bethel, formerly of Minisink Hills, pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact of burglary. Judge Davis deferred sentencing until later and remanded Smith to jail. He had

County Gives Ruling On Surcharges

FLOYD BUTZ, a candidate for Monroe County assemblyman, requested yesterday the Monroe County commissioners to indicate the ruling made by them in relation to charge of veterans for exemption of veterans serving in the Korean Conflict.

The request for the ruling was made by Butz after a Letter to the Editor, published in The Daily Record, Saturday. The letter was sent to the newspaper by Ernest Martz.

Leo Achterman, Monroe County solicitor, said, "Prior to September 1, 1959, the law provided for a charge of $1 for such papers made by the Recorder of Deeds."

"The commissioners in August, 1959, received ruling from me that they should not furnish such exemption without charge," he added.

Achterman continued, "The Legislature in September 1959 passed a law providing for such exemptions to be free and the Act also provided that the same should be retroactive prior to September 1959."

"The commissioners were advised by me that no retroactive act could be passed and therefore prior to September 1959 law, they could not refund such charge without being subject to surcharge," he concluded.

Candidates' Schedule

HARRISBURG (AP) — Here is Tuesday's schedule for the three major candidates for gubernatorial nominations in the May 15 primaries:

J. Collins McSparran—Independent Republican — 9 a.m., coffee klatch at home of Lewis Pyle, Chester Springs, Chester County. Also tour Paoli, Frazer, Exton, Downingtown, Wagontown, Honey Brook, Oxford and Avondale. 6:30 p.m., fund raising dinner at Goshen Fire House.

William W. Scranton—Organization Republican — in Washington for Congressional session.

Richardson Dilworth—Organization Democrat—four Cambria, Indiana and Armstrong counties: 9:30 a.m., Cambria County Court House; 12:15 p.m. Luncheon with Indiana County committee, Indiana; 2 p.m. Speech at Indiana State College; 6:30 p.m., dinner with Armstrong County executive committee, Kittanning; 8:30 p.m., reception, court house, Kittanning.

New President For Shrine

READING, Pa. (AP)—Dr. Donald Wolford, Johnstown, is the new president of the Pennsylvania Shrine Association, succeeding Stanley S. Stephens, Reading.

Others elected at the association's convention Saturday were George C. Smith, Wilkes-Barre, first vice president; Jack Fox, Philadelphia, second vice president and Paul R. Swab, Harrisburg, re-elected secretary treasurer.

Eastburg Taxpayers Lodge 3 Complaints To Council

EAST Stroudsburg Taxpayers Association last night voted to send a letter to the borough council concerning three complaints.

A second letter will be drafted threatening the council for keeping tax millage at the same rate this year as last.

The complaints were lodged against teen-age boys riding bicycles on the sidewalks and against traffic. In instances cited, the boys were reported to have struck pedestrians on sidewalks and used foul language in addressing adults.

The bicycles are alleged to be lacking headlights and reflectors as required by law. Councilman William Schnaitman said there was a fine of $5 for violating the state ordinance.

Another complaint was brought against the traffic leaving the industrial areas of East Stroudsburg and not paying attention to stop signs at Lackawanna and Lenox Aves.

The no parking ordinance on Analomink St. was discussed and the letter is to recommend that there be parking for limited times on at least one side of the street. It was pointed out that the street is not a main thoroughfare.

Reports were heard on the council, planning commission and school reorganization meetings. It was reported that the planning commission has been requested to make the ordinances public prior to the hearings to be held.

The $10,000 year street repair being done was not let out on bids, Schnaitman said. In order to get around the law that requires a borough to contact the state for laborer's hourly wages on projects costing more than $1,000.

This wage, he said, is above what local contractors had been paying.

In discussing reorganization, LeRoy Klein, secretary of the association, said that it was his understanding that if the reorganization went through, all of Monroe County and two townships in Pike County would be included and that all millage would be the same.

Back Butz A motion was made and seconded for the association to support Floyd Butz, Democratic candidate for state assemblyman, Butz gave a resume of his qualifications for the office and reminded the audience that he had instituted the use of microfilming books in the office of Register and Recorder which resulted in a saving of $825 per book. Each year, 20 to 25 books are used in the office, he emphasized.

Rise In Copper Pipe NEW YORK (AP)—Chase Brass & Copper Co., a subsidiary of Kennecott Copper Corp., raised prices 5 per cent on various sizes of copper water tube, effective Monday. Other producers have ordered similar increases recently.

Area Officials Protest Deactivation Of PNG Units

A TELEGRAM protesting the deactivation of two National Guard units which assisted after the 1955 flood here has been sent to Gov. David L. Lawrence in Harrisburg.

It was signed by Richard Rugg, commander of George N. Kemp Post 346, American Legion; Lawrence Savercool, commander of Thomas P. Lambert Post 2540, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Joseph Small, Stroudsburg mayor; Thomas L. Kistler, East Stroudsburg mayor, and John Lesoine, Willard

Quick and Stanley Rader, Monroe County commissioners. The units involved are the 876th Engineer Bn., Johnstown, and the 722nd Transportation Co., Williamstown.

The telegram says in part: "Their assistance was a vital factor in avoiding further loss of life, in sparing this entire region epidemic and dire want and in restoring vital services."

"This service is but an indication of the value of these units in meeting future natural disaster and possible enemy nuclear attack."

"We are shocked to learn that the Dept. of Defense is determined to destroy these fine units. Such action can be considered only as an act of utter disregard for the needs of our state and communities in coping with disaster."

"We are informed by our local veterans organizations that the threatened destruction of these units is being carried out in opposition to the advice of our highest professional military authorities."

"The officers and men of the 876th and 722nd came to our aid in 1955. We will do no less for them in 1962. In this hour when our nation and civilization stand face to face with the threat of destruction we urge you to demand a strengthening rather than a weakening of any National Guard forces."

46 Pints Collected In Blood Drive

MOUNTAINHOME — Forty six pints of blood were collected during a visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Mountainhome Methodist Church yesterday.

A total of 53 persons volunteered, but seven were deferred for various reasons.

John Baker was chairman of the drive, sponsored by Evans-Blitz Post, American Legion. Rev. Joseph S. Carter made facilities of the church available for the drive.

It was the largest number of pints ever collected in Barrett Township. Quota for the visit was 125 pints.

The next bloodmobile visit will be announced in the near future.

Pocono Lake Man Arrested On Assault, Battery

DANIEL Mulligan, Sr., of Pocono Lake, was arrested yesterday afternoon on charges of assault and battery.

Complaint was brought by Forrest L. Graves, Stroudsburg, before Justice of the Peace Forrest B. Sebring, Stroud Township.

Mulligan was released under $500 bond pending a hearing Wednesday.

The fracas allegedly was over a political argument.

Two Great Steps

President Kennedy's transportation message to Congress is based on the sound premise that the public interest is best served when government policy favors no one.

In the President's words, his program "... means equality of opportunity for all forms of transportation and their users and undue preference to none. It means a greater reliance on the forces of competition and less reliance on the restraints of regulation. And it means that, to the extent possible, the users of transportation services should bear the full costs of the services they use, whether those services are provided privately or publicly."

One important effect of the program would be to free the railroads from a set of long-obsolete regulations which have brought this basic industry into deep and dark financial waters. Specifically, certain railroad traffic—including bulk commodities and passengers—would be relieved of minimum rate regulations. This would allow them a freedom urgently needed to compete for the business with waterway and highway carriers.

Mr. Kennedy also urges repeal of the 10 per cent tax on passenger fares—a tax that, ironically, was imposed as a temporary measure during World War II, but has been on the books ever since. A tax of .5 per cent on domestic air services would be levied. But this is not a transportation tax. It is a user tax, designed to help pay for the public facilities that the airlines employ in their operations.

This message to Congress came hard on the heels of the report of the distinguished Presidential Commission which spent more than a year on the railroad work rules, or "feather-bedding," problem. That commission recommended the elimination of enormously costly and now totally obsolete rules—and, at the same time, recommended solid protections for displaced railroad workers. Adoption of these two programs—by Congress for the one, and by management-union agreement for the other—would amount to one of the greatest possible steps forward in strengthening national transportation as a whole.

Capital Punishment

On April 2, the State took the life of Elmo Lee Smith for murder. A few days later, a Columbia County jury convicted Frank Earl Senk on a similar charge and has asked for his life.

Thus, again, we are brought face to face with the question of capital punishment and whether the State has the right to exact the life of an individual in payment for a crime. There is no question that the people have the legal right to do so, for it is written into the statute books. The question is whether or not the State, which did not create life in the first place, has the moral right to do so.

Punishment is based on the premises that, one, wrongdoers should be segregated from the rest of society so that others may go about their affairs without fear of hindrance or harm and, two, that punishment serves as a deterrent to others who might be inclined to break the law.

Of the first, there is no doubt of its rightness. Law abiding citizens have the right to protection. Indeed, they must be protected if organized society is to exist. If there were no punishment for law breakers, there would be no point to law in the first place. Prisons may not be a social good, but they are a social necessity.

There is, however, some question as to whether the death penalty is right. Aside from the question of morality alluded to above, there is the more practical question of how successful the threat of death is as a deterrent to crime.

Most of the evidence advanced by sociologists and many leading penologists and criminologists seems to indicate that the threat of death does not deter at all or at least very little. Its deterrent effect acts only on the completely sane, rational individual who, if he contemplates murder, first weighs all elements and then decides to commit or not to commit the crime. It obviously has no deterrent effect at all on those who are insane or kill in the heat of passion.

Those who take life deserve little mercy, but do they deserve a punishment that, one, society may have no moral right to inflict, or second, that has never been proved an effective deterrent to the type of crime it seeks to punish? —Wilkes-Barre Journal

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

This is the week that we entertain an all-state chorus. To be held in the gym of Stroud Union High. Fifty-five schools from east and northeast Pennsylvania. . . . Totaling one forty-six gals and guys.

Try this fractured verse on your piano to the tune of "76 Trombones," and with all due apologies to Meredith Wilson who wrote the tune, and Ogden Nash whose verse this really seems to imitate — but doesn't. This is a round-about but perfect way to kick off the coming of nearly 200 singers, faculty members and friends to the first Stroud Union presentation of the All-State Chorus Saturday night in the school's gymnasium.

It took teamwork from the state level right down to Stroud Union's Music Parents Association to set up a schedule for the invading musicians.

Starting with registration on Thursday the 146 girls and boys will weave through a hectic schedule of events before performing — we hope — a packed house the evening before Sunday.

Local residents have opened their arms to the group, offering lodging, meals, fun and excitement during their "free" hours. But it won't be all play and no work. The All-State Chorus will face a steady diet of rehearsals before putting on their performance Saturday at 8:15 p.m.

The three-day visit of the chorus is a symbol of what the area can do and does for a project that is worthwhile. It was not an easy task to set up three days of entertainment and housing for the guests. It was not easy to select the singers either. Work and more of it

The Pennsylvania Story

'Beagle Boys' Are Watching

Harrisburg — The beagle boys from Washington will be watching for some sort of "Kennedy trend" (either plus or minus) in Pennsylvania this year.

That at least seems to be the consensus of opinion among some of the Washingtonian scribes with whom this column talked recently.

This is not to say of course that any great clear-cut "public opinion" will be forthcoming from Pennsylvanians, pro or con, on such Kennedy Administration policies as aid to Viet Nam, Laos or the habits of Joe's Bistro down in Caracas, Venezuela.

These aren't the issues or the points on which some sort of reaction is being sought on Democratic Kennedy Administration programs.

The domestic issues are the prime items — and at first blush even these oft-times far-reaching issues may seem somewhat remote insofar as Pennsylvania is concerned; but are they?

For example, a surprising number of Kennedy Administration programs have not slid idly by the board insofar as the Democratic Administration of Governor Lawrence is concerned.

The administration here in Pennsylvania has gone to Washington on a host of different occasions to battle in behalf of Kennedy Administration programs before congressional committees. (Commercial airlines operating between Harrisburg and Washington are quite happy about the whole thing.)

Thus when the political guns start unlimbering this summer between Democratic and Republican candidates for the governorship and congressional seats, Washingtonian beagles will be looking for some sort of for or against trend of the Kennedy Administration in the outcome of Pennsylvania's election fracas this fall.

The Democratic-Lawrence Administration has solidly followed the Kennedy Administration line on the issue of providing medical care for the aged via the Social Security system — a program that outside of governmental circles has drawn bitter and sometimes violent opposition; with the opposition feeling such care can be handled better and more practically via non-Social Security methods.

The Area Redevelopment Administration is another illustration. Legislation providing for this program, although approved by Congress during the Kennedy Administration, drew the ink from the veto pen of former Republican President Eisenhower. On this legislation the Lawrence Administration flailed the drums and toolled the horns in all-out support (involving jogs to Washington) and unquestionably helped in its final enactment.

Establishment of an Urban has been the theme the past six months.

But Numa Snyder, the Music Parents, Stroud Union officials, and John Q. Public blended their talents magnificently and the result is an assured success of the venture.

This is the week we entertain an All-State Chorus. To be held in the gym of Stroud Union High.

Fifty-five schools from east and northeast Pennsylvania. . . . Totaling one forty-six gals and guys.

Affairs post, another Kennedy Administration pet, also drew ardent support from Pennsylvania's Democratic Lawrence Administration. While the post was created by administration action, the prime move to have it established by Congress as a Cabinet post lost somewhat ignominiously, sliding into the waters of the Potomac.

The Lawrence Administration has also gone all-out in support of the Kennedy Administration's Peace Corps movement and the administration's Physical Fitness Program (exhale).

These are merely a few illustrations of the point we are trying to make. Whether good or bad, plus or minus, is not of concern at the moment — the point being that the current Democratic Lawrence Administration has done more outright backing of Washingtonian programs than other Keystone State chief executives of the past.

The extent has been such, it is generally felt, that some sort of gauge of reaction to the Kennedy Administration will be evident in this year's gubernatorial-senatorial outcome.

After all, Democratic gubernatorial candidate Richardson Dilworth has already indicated he will be running pretty much on the record of the Lawrence Administration — and the Lawrence Administration unquestionably has done a bang-up job of supporting the Kennedy Administration in bringing the Washington issues before Pennsylvanians!

Inside You And Yours

Vitamin And Mineral Queries

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

Q: Do sulfa drugs and antibiotics increase the need for vitamins?

A: No — but fever does! The higher your fever, the more food you burn — and the more B and C vitamins you need! With usual germs dead, yeast fungus runs wild and may mimic vitamin lack.

Q: Can vitamin E cure brown spots on the back of my hands?

A: No. Years of sun and rain, wind and dust — not vitamin deficiency — bring out this brownish color. You can't roll back the calendar.

Cake make-up can cover over any unsightly discolorations.

Q: Can good nutrition prevent infection?

A: No — but it helps.

Vital Vitamin A

Consider vitamin A. Without it, neither tears nor skin oil flow. Dry skin and eyes crack open inviting in all kinds of germs.

Still, well-fed doctors and nurses, working in epidemics, often catch the contagious disease. Polio used to paralyze mainly well-nourished victims.

On the other hand, ill-housed, ill-fed babies caught polio so early, mothers' antibodies still protected them from paralysis.

Q: Do lipotropic compounds ruin vitamin A?

A: No — you eat protein containing many lipotropic chemicals. They carry away excess fat and prevent fatty degeneration in a diseased liver. They don't shrink normal fatty stores of vitamin A.

Polar bears eat lipotropic chemicals, too, yet polar bear liver contains enough vitamin A to poison you.

Food and Strong Blood

Q: What foods build strong red blood?

A: The Basic Four: (1) At least one pint milk daily (protein and vitamin B-12); (2) Two servings meat, fish, poultry or eggs (iron, vitamin B-12 and folic acid); (3) Four servings fruits and vegetables, including one citrus (vitamin C) and one green leafy (folic acid); (4) Four servings whole wheat or enriched bread or cereal (iron and protein).

Question Of Baldness

Q: Can cutting out salt prevent baldness?

A: No! Less salt is supposed to have slowed fallout temporarily. But high blood pressure victims eat little salt, and thousands grow bald. It's shunning testimony that a salt-poor diet shrinks little more than a swelled head!

The Allen-Scott Report

Khrushchev Pressuring For Papal Conference

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, May 8 — Soviet Premier Khrushchev is putting on the diplomatic pressure for a meeting with Pope John XXIII. He has sent instructions to his ambassadors in Rome, Paris and Washington to pull every diplomatic string available to arrange for a meeting with the spiritual leader of the Catholic Church.

Significantly, Khrushchev is seeking the meeting with the Roman Catholic Pontiff before the Second Vatican Council convenes in October.

Already, the Kremlin's Communist ruler has used these diplomatic channels to ask Italian Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani to intervene in his behalf. Khrushchev urged him to arrange the conference with Pope John to coincide with his visit to Italy later this year.

The final details of the Soviet leader's visit to Rome are now being negotiated by officials of the two governments. Announcement of the date and length of Khrushchev's stay is expected with the ending of the government's election crisis.

A Khrushchev-Pope John meeting is something else.

Vatican officials are making it clear that Khrushchev would have to come up with some dramatic concessions before such a meeting could even be considered.

One suggestion passed to the Kremlin was that Khrushchev could show his good faith by agreeing to negotiate a state-church accord permitting the reopening of additional Catholic churches and allowing Catholic missionaries to enter Russia.

So far as can be determined here, Khrushchev, a confirmed atheist, has not responded to the Vatican's far-reaching counter-proposal.

TRAJAN HORSE — Premier Khrushchev's determined surprise bid for a meeting with Pope John is part of the "peaceful co-existence" offensive he is pushing in Europe.

According to U. S. Intelligence estimates, this campaign will reach its climax in July with a big rally in Moscow. It is designed to (1) force the West to make new concessions on West Berlin and disarmament, and (2) divert attention from new Soviet-directed Communist moves in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

This is the report that Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York, carried to Rome, where he is attending sessions of the Central Preparatory Commission for the Ecumenical Council.

Cardinal Spellman, who is opposing any meeting between Pope John and Khrushchev, was briefed on these Khrushchev maneuvers by a high U. S. official during his stop-over in Washington last week.

Also, he was told that Khrushchev had just named Sergey Mikheylov, the Soviet's top expert on the Catholic Church, head of the Soviet Institute for Latin American Research in Moscow.

Mikheylov's unannounced appointment presages an all-out attack on the Catholic Church in Latin America. He is familiar with the Church's organization and doctrine, and during a tour in the Soviet embassy in Rome Mikheylov negotiated with the Vatican concerning church-state relations in the Communist European satellites.

WESTERN SPLIT A sharp policy dispute has developed within the Western Big Four over whether to permit Soviet troops to be stationed in West Berlin in exchange for new Soviet guarantees of Western access routes to that beleaguered city.

This major argument has been going on among the U. S., Great Britain, France and West Germany ever since Secretary of State Rusk suggested the move as a major concession to the Russians.

Secretary Rusk holds that Soviet Premier Khrushchev would drop his demand to oust all Western forces from West Berlin if they would permit a Russian military garrison to enter the city.

He takes the position that such a major concession is worth granting to get Khrushchev to agree to put the access route "guarantees" in writing. Rusk is being supported by the British.

West Germany and France, however, oppose making this concession on the grounds that permitting Soviet troops in West Berlin would be a major blow to the city's morale and could eventually lead to a Russian take-over.

They charge that Rusk's proposal is similar to the one made last year by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in an effort to make West Berlin an international city.

RED YOUTH DRIVE — An all-out Communist campaign to infiltrate youth groups throughout the world can be expected. Vladimir Semichastay, former head of the All-Union Komsomol in the Soviet Union, has been named head of the Soviet MGB, the civilian security and intelligence organ of the Russian government.

Before taking over his present position, Semichastay traveled extensively to visit various youth congresses and conferences within the Soviet bloc, Asia, Africa and Latin America. . . . The publication in the Soviet New Times of an unknown letter Lenin wrote in 1922 to launch the Soviet's first co-existence drive has caused a major stir among U. S. experts in Russia. The letter reveals the existence of a Second-and-a-Half International. Writing to an Austrian Communist, Lenin stated: "We Communists have our own Communist program, the Third International; nevertheless, we consider it our duty as merchants to support (even if there is only a 1-10,000 chance) the pacifists in the other bourgeois camps in which we include the Second and the Second-and-a-Half Internationals."

For instance, there was an interesting discussion about retarded children, for which Rolf Hertzgaard of WBAL-TV of Baltimore won a prize. One constantly meets retarded children and even retarded adults. The slow-witted, as they used to be called, are part of our citizenry and have a vote.

Apart from the sufferings of their parents and kinkof, they only too often become bad citizens. The witless often lack memory or they possess lopsided memories, being blocked on all subjects but one, and that one is sometimes self-preservation which forces them to be liars and cheats.

I can recall, in my childhood, how we used to make fun of such children, but today apparently much can be done for them. The psychologist plays a great role in this reconstruction of children. If only they could reconstruct some adults!

Medicine is no longer, "stick your tongue out!" The application of every science to the preservation and prolongation of life gives us new responsibilities. For instance, the problems of the oldsters grow more serious and numerous every day, particularly as employment rules are made to conform with life insurance company attitudes that are often unrealistic.

The problems arising from our better knowledge of foods are numerous, for we socially inherit tastes which have been proved medically to be damaging.

But the greatest problem today is the unwillingness of the layman to understand that, during a break-through, mistakes are made which might solve some problems, but which temporarily do astonishing things. I once took a pill that turned my hair pink!

For A Longer Life

I dropped in to a luncheon which Mary Lasker gives annually to award prizes to some who write about medical matters. Mary Lasker's luncheons are interesting because those who are there are often doctors, of some sort or other, and the table conversation can be rich.

The medical sciences and arts, and their associated disciplines, are achieving wonders not only in prolonging life but in making life more comfortable. As evidence, I offer myself, who, during the past six years, has had the major illnesses and has only missed four days of work. Even half a century ago, this would have been impossible. I should surely have died by now. Alive, even gay, I laugh at those who these days live in fear. Feeling very cheerful after Mrs. Lasker's lunch, I bought myself a pretty necktie, went up to my doctor's and got a B-12 shot, just for fun.

And that is really the whole point of the luncheon and all the speeches that were made, except by the politician — as he himself said — Abraham Ribicoff, who wanted us all to favor his ideas about attaching old-age health care to social security, which I do not like, because I have no faith in social security.

It is, of course, tough not to have the money to pay the doctor or the hospital or the undertaker. But then, poverty is always tough and intolerable and is, in many instances, due to shiftlessness and profligacy and an unwillingness to be thrifty and to work hard, and to push along. It is preferable to save for a rainy day as Albert Lasker did.

Nevertheless, it must be noted that as old folks grow older and as children do not like to be burdened with aging parents, something must be devised to safeguard these individuals. This is one of the few countries where there are no beggars; on the other hand, it is also a sign of moral decadence that children do not honor their parents by protecting them from dependence on government.

The general cry is that hospitals charge too much, which is true, if one does not have the money to pay the going rates. On the other hand, how much is too much about anything? For instance, when my life was saved from a cancer, I regarded the cost very small indeed, because I enjoy living. It is an extremely pleasant episode.

For one who does not enjoy remaining alive but hopes to take a trip to Hong Kong rather than to pay a doctor, the price is too high. But it is not so long ago that nobody survived certain illnesses which are today handleable by capable doctors and surgeons. This is what the Lasker Foundation luncheon seeks to make known by stimulating interest in medical reporting.

Survives 5-Hour Heart Surgery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lankenau Hospital officials reported Friday 22-year-old John Kriner came through a five-hour open heart operation successfully and that his condition is satisfactory. Kriner, a resident of Tamaqua, Pa., was given less than 10 years to live by doctors unless he underwent the delicate operation.

Twenty-six pints of blood were donated Wednesday by residents of Tamaqua, Mahanoy City and Shenandoah. They came to the hospital in a bus chartered by the Tamaqua Lions Club. None knew Kriner personally.

Negotiate On New Contract

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Aluminum Co. of America announced yesterday it will begin negotiations on a new labor contract with the United Steelworkers Union in New York City May 15.

A spokesman for Alcoa said talks with the Aluminum Workers International Union will start the following day, also in New York. The current pact with both unions expires July 31. About 12,000 workers in 12 plants are represented by the USW and some 8,000 workers in 10 plants are members of the Aluminum Workers International.

New Phone Dialing Seen Advantageous

THE new all number calling (ANC) telephone system which will be introduced July 1 in Bushkill, (Pa. and N.J.), Cresco, Delaware Water Gap, (Pa. and N.J.), Mt. Pocono and Stroudsburg, (Pa. and N.J.), offers many advantages for telephone users, E. B. Chura, Bell Telephone Company's Stroudsburg manager, said yesterday.

"Dialing numbers with the new system has been proved easier, faster and more accurate than with other modern telephone number systems," Chura said.

When the new program goes into effect, all telephone numbers in the 8 communities will consist of seven figures. A typical number for Stroudsburg will be 421-1801.

Chura emphasized that local numbers will not be changed, only the figures will be substituted for the two letters presently used.

A new local Bell directory containing the new numbers will be delivered shortly before the changeover. The directory will have all-number listings for the different communities alphabetized in one integrated white pages section.

Outgrowing

"The nation is rapidly outgrowing the two-letter, five-digit telephone numbering system presently used in many communities," Chura explained.

"The major contributing factors are the booming population growth causing a great increase in the number of telephones; new telephone services, such as customer dialing of long distance calls; and the development of new types of telephones and other telephone equipment."

According to Chura, studies and tests conducted by telephone scientists show that all number calling has definite advantages — both present and future — over the two-letter, five-digit system.

"It is easier and faster to dial calls with the new system, because there is no need to switch your attention back and forth between letters and numbers on the dial," he said, continuing:

"And all number calling eliminates confusion between letters and numbers on the dial. For example, the figure '0' (zero) and the letter 'o' are often confused and wrong numbers result. It happens with the figure '1' (one) and the letter 'l' also. The new system does away with all that difficulty."

Chura explained that the new system also avoids difficulties in spelling and pronouncing telephone central office names. "There just aren't any names to cause errors," he said.

Future Growth

The ANC system will make room for future growth in the telephone system by providing more usable "central office codes," according to Chura. "With more codes available, people can dial more telephones with a minimum number of digits."

"Another big plus in the all-number calling system," Chura said, "is the way it will help future development of the telephone art, by opening the way for many future improvements in service — such things as national and international direct dialing, miniaturized telephones and equipment, better business telephone service and others."

Chura suggested that customers keep the upcoming change in mind when ordering new supplies of stationery, business cards or other printed material carrying their telephone number.

All number calling has been successfully used for the past three years in Wichita Falls, Texas, a city of 120,000. "People there like it," Chura said, "and the results there confirmed the results of scientific tests made earlier by Bell Telephone Laboratories."

Stroudsburg Woman Jailed

CLEMENTINE Ray, 33, of 556 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Stroudsburg Police on charges of disorderly conduct.

She was jailed pending a hearing yesterday morning before Justice of the Peace H.D. Larson, East Stroudsburg, where she entered a plea of guilty. She was assessed a fine of $10 and costs on two counts in default of which she was committed to the Monroe County Jail for 60 days.

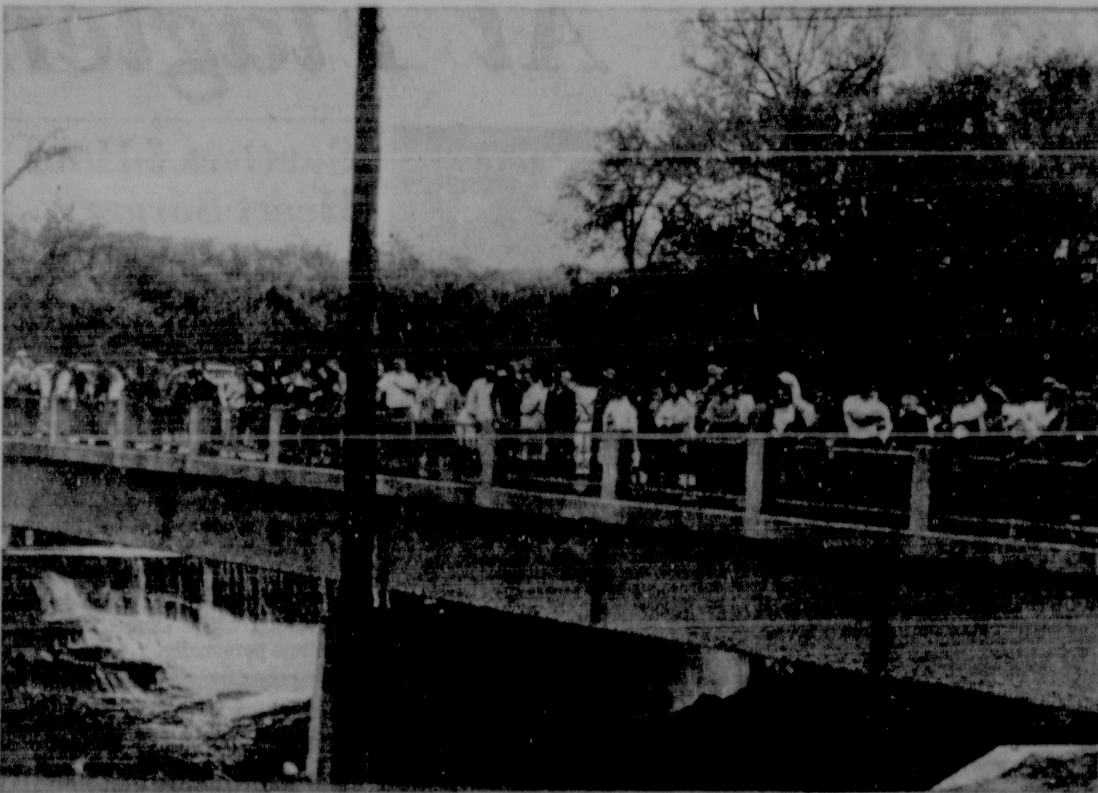

Two warrants were signed by Lemuel Isom and Patrolman Richard Wolbert, Stroudsburg Police.

Outdoor Fair At Easton

EASTON — An international theme will be used at the outdoor fair Wednesday May 23 to be held on the grounds of Temple Covenant of Peace, Northampton and 15th Sts., Easton.

Little Jeanne Remembers Lesson Of Two Years Ago

By Pat Williams

Daily Record Reporter

IT WAS Jeanne's third birthday. Her braids had ribbons on the ends and her shoes were polished. Her sundress was just right for the July afternoon.

Her mother and daddy were going to take her out for a ride in the car to visit friends. She walked down by the pond while she waited, watching her dog and the puppy from next door as their reflections appeared in the water. Jeanne walked closer to the puppies as they ran and barked. "Here Ginger," she called. The puppy scampered over to the little girl.

With a struggle, Jeanne picked up the squirming puppy and staggered to the edge of the pond.

Two splashes as Jeanne plunged into the water with the dog. The puppy paddled rapidly for shore where she shook the droplets from her fur and resumed play with the other dog.

Jeanne floundered in the shallow water, soaked to the top of her head. In a moment, she had clambered out and was running up the hill crying for her parents.

"Are you going to spank me?"

As the dripping little girl appeared at the front door, her parents realized what had happened in a glance.

"I fell in the water," she sobbed, "are you going to spank me?"

Her mother took her hand and walked down over the hill toward the scene of the accident, just as a damp puppy ran past, headed home for supper.

"Did you throw Ginger in the pond?"

Jeanne nodded, "And I fell in." When they reached the edge of the pond, Jeanne's footprints could be seen on a flat rock.

"You must never go near the pond again; you don't know how to swim," her mother declared, holding the little girl by the shoulders, "if you did fall in and drown we wouldn't have you to love anymore."

"You must be taught a lesson that you won't forget." As she said that to the little girl, she took one arm and one leg and threw Jeanne into the water.

In a second, Jeanne found footing and bobbed up, sputtering and crying, "Help me, Mommy, help me."

With a yank, Jeanne's mother had her out of the water and marching up the hill toward the house, dripping and crying even harder.

The scene was over, but although two years have passed, little Jeanne has not gone near the pond again, and she's learning to swim.

LOVING CARE IS NEEDED when you're driving, too!

There are so many ways to express your love for a child —amuse him, caress him, understand him, protect him from hurt and harm.

Because drivers kill and cripple more children than any disease, a car is potentially one of the most dangerous places your child can ever be. So protect him whenever he is in the car—with a seat belt.

If every car owner in America had seat belts in his car—and used them—we could reduce severe injuries by one-third, deaths by 5,000 a year!

It's terribly important to drive with loving care, always. And to support strict law enforcement in your town, for where laws are strictly enforced, accidents and deaths go down. But can a parent who wants to protect his loved ones and himself possibly overlook the protection afforded by seat belts?

McLain-Stephens Wedding

Miss Janet Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Stephens of Market St., Moscow, was married to Roy Curtis McLain, son of Richard McLain and the late Mrs. Florence McLain, Greentown, on April 7 at 3 p.m. in the Moscow Methodist Church.

Rev. Marvin Schell officiated. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a floor-length gown of imported French silk, featuring a scalloped neckline, tapered sleeves with covered buttons, and inserts of lace. She carried a bouquet of gladiolus with a carnation center.

Mrs. Peggy Holdren was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of blue nylon over satin with a lace jacket and McLain, sister of the bridegroom, Bridesmaids were Miss Joyce McLain, sister of the bridegroom, in a yellow gown; Miss Marlene McLain, also a sister, in a green gown. Miss Lois Stephens, sister of the bride wore a pink ruffled gown with cap sleeves.

Best man was Larry McLain, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Bruce McLain, Willard Stephens, Jr., Thomas Pfeiffer and Robert Holdren.

A reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Scranton.

The bride is a graduate of Moscow High School and is employed at the International Correspondence School.

Mr. McLain was graduated from the high school in Newfoundland and served two years with the U. S. Navy. He is employed by the Flu Department in National Drug Co., Swiftwater.

After a wedding trip to Canada and Niagara Falls, the couple will reside in Greentown.

The bride was entertained at showers given by Mrs. Floyd Tooley, Joyce and Marlene McLain, Ruth Smith and her fellow employees at ICS.

May Crowning Is Planned At Brodheadsville

Brodheadsville — Plans for the May Crowning were among those discussed at the meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society of Our Lady Queen of Peace Church.

Bonnie Scerbo was named May Queen with Nancy Talpas as her attendant and Elizabeth Wilmoth and Kathy Mondrick in her court. All children of the parish will participate in the process. The religious ceremony will be followed with a dinner in the auditorium commemorating the seventh anniversary of the church in Brodheadsville.

Mrs. Rose Talpas presided at the meeting, announcing that a special membership drive is being held with new members to be enrolled on May 27.

Mass on Sunday, May 13, will be offered for the mothers of the parish.

Plans were completed for the Deane's meeting at which the local society was hosts. Peg Ostoski and Alvina Scerbo were in charge of registration. Sophie Krise, and Gertrude Snyder, assisted by Myra Beck and Margaret Reiner served.

Refreshments were served by Bertha Held, Marge Mondrick, Margaret Reiner and Rose Talpas.

The final graduation exercises for the Barrett Pre-School as a private organization will be held on Thursday, May 31, at 10:30 a.m. James Davenport, elementary supervisor of the Pocono Mountains Joint Schools, will be the guest speaker. All parents and friends are invited.

Mrs. Herbert Larsen reported on the rummage sale at Sopko's Store.

With Mrs. Meyung presiding, the budget for 1962-63 was presented and discussed. It will be voted upon at the next meeting. Mrs. William Cairney was named chairman for a picnic to be held in July. The group also discussed the possibility of having a yearbook with a permanent cover. Several ideas for projects were presented.

The club was invited to attend the May meeting of the Barrett Junior Woman's Club to be held at the Barrett Y on Thursday, May 16, at 8:15.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. E. Magann, Mrs. Donald Biles and Mrs. Paul Miller.

Barrett Club Installation; Pre-School Project Closes

Barrett — Officers of the Barrett Community Club were installed at the May meeting held at the Barrett YMCA with Mrs. Robert Payne, newly-elected president of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs conducting the ceremony.

Mrs. Leon Meyung, Jr., is president; Mrs. William Cairney, first vice president; Mrs. Paul Miller, second vice president; Mrs. Earl Thomas, Jr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Donald Biles, recording secretary; and Mrs. Roebbing Gravel, treasurer.

Miss Barbara Carlton presided at the meeting when plans were made to turn over all of the Barrett Pre-School project to the school district.

The club was responsible for starting and maintaining a school for pre-school age children of the township on a cooperative basis. The school district is now establishing a kindergarten at the Barrett Elementary Center, and the Barrett Club is presenting them with the equipment.

The presentation will be made at the PTA meeting on Monday, May 14, at the elementary center at 8 p.m. All members of the club are invited.

The final graduation exercises for the Barrett Pre-School as a private organization will be held on Thursday, May 31, at 10:30 a.m. James Davenport, elementary supervisor of the Pocono Mountains Joint Schools, will be the guest speaker. All parents and friends are invited.

Mrs. Herbert Larsen reported on the rummage sale at Sopko's Store.

With Mrs. Meyung presiding, the budget for 1962-63 was presented and discussed. It will be voted upon at the next meeting. Mrs. William Cairney was named chairman for a picnic to be held in July. The group also discussed the possibility of having a yearbook with a permanent cover. Several ideas for projects were presented.

The club was invited to attend the May meeting of the Barrett Junior Woman's Club to be held at the Barrett Y on Thursday, May 16, at 8:15.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. E. Magann, Mrs. Donald Biles and Mrs. Paul Miller.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, June 6, at 8:30 at the Barrett YMCA.

Neighborhood Scout Leaders Plan For Fall

East Stroudsburg Neighborhood Girl Scout leaders were the guests at the home of the neighborhood chairman, Mrs. Alfred Sumberg, for their May meeting. Mrs. Roger Acker taught them new songs.

She also asked for volunteers to help with the Day Camp at Camp Lloyd Trible July 23 to Aug. 16. The East Stroudsburg Neighborhood will be represented in the Memorial Day parade. Several of the troops have volunteered to knit mittens in a service project sponsored by the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs.

Mrs. George Stabenow and Mrs. Charles Baker, troop organizers, outlined plans for next year's program. Retiring leaders will be Mrs. William Blake, Mrs. Jay Snover, Miss Grace Treible, Mrs. Eleanor Randolph and Mrs. Catherine Shields.

The senior troops under the leadership of Mrs. Clifford Kintner and Mrs. Donald Berger will be combined. Mrs. Blake will become neighborhood reporter in September.

The group honored its district advisor, Miss Dolores Elmire who is leaving the Council on June 1 to devote full time to creative writing. Her place will be taken by Miss Peggy Jean Davis.

Mrs. Sumberg served refreshments after the meeting.

Alaskan Slides Shown To Barrett GOP Council

Barrett — Slides of the recent trip to Alaska were shown by Paul Nauman at the Barrett Council of Republican Women's meeting Thursday night in the Barrett Branch YMCA.

The meeting opened with the pledge to the flag, the singing of "America" and prayer by Miss Edith Seguing.

Mrs. Rena Nauman sang "I Believe" and "On The Street Where You Live".

A trio of young girls sang "How Much Is That Doggie In The Window" as a smaller trio in dog face-masks acted out the lyrics.

A short sketch of candidates for office were read by Mrs. Joanne Seese, Eleanor Bristol, and Miss Edna Eife. These candidates are running for election in the primary May 15.

Local candidates included: Gerald Snyder and Clifford Heller for state assemblyman and Harold Kresge and Jack Mullins for state committeeman.

Mrs. Violet Price gave a resume of the speech given at the Rotary Conference at Pocono Manor last weekend by John Morley, noted traveler, news correspondent and lecturer.

Refreshments were omitted to allow time for the Alaskan slides. Nauman was requested to return in the Fall to give another program.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Can you call back in a half hour? She's drying a dish."

Dear Abby

Motivated Design!

DEAR ABBY: I recently had the privilege of taking a nice young lady to dinner, and was very much surprised when she asked if she could butter my bread. I let her do it, since she seemed so sincere in her offer, and I must say the world would be much better off if little courtesies like this were shown more often. I am a Yankee and this lady was from the South. Is this a Southern custom?

DEAR ABBY: I recently had the privilege of taking a nice young lady to dinner, and was very much surprised when she asked if she could butter my bread. I let her do it, since she seemed so sincere in her offer, and I must say the world would be much better off if little courtesies like this were shown more often. I am a Yankee and this lady was from the South. Is this a Southern custom?

I feel complimented when someone drops in to visit me. I let people know they are always welcome to come to my home, without telephoning first. THAT is honest-to-goodness hospitality.

DEAR YANKEE: No, it's a universal custom with all young women who know on which side their bread is buttered.

DEAR HUMILIATED: I think this "soap survey" is a dirty trick.

DEAR ABBY: Just had to tell you I'm with you 100 percent when it comes to people who just "drop in" to visit. I like company — but only when I invite them.

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school and would like your opinion about a ridiculous rule at our school. All the girls must shower together after each gym class. In order to receive credit, you must call the gym teacher over and show her the SOAP on your body! Now I am going to be 18 soon and I know when I have enough soap on me to be clean. If you refuse to follow this rule, you get a "D" in gym and an "Unsatisfactory" in work habits. What do you think of this?

DEAR ABBY: Will you please discontinue your battle against the "nervy, drop-in type visitors."

DEAR ABBY: You recently said you were violently opposed to the practice of dropping in on people unexpectedly. Does this apply to clergymen?

TV Highlights

DAVE GARROWAY will be the host-anchor man and Arlene Francis the hostess for the 90-minute live broadcast from Miami Beach of the "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant," Saturday, July 14 on the CBS Television Network. "Password" will originate both its daytime and nighttime versions in Television City, Hollywood, for three weeks starting May 21.

Jess is thrown in a smashup and loses a stagecoach payroll on tonight's rerun of "Laramie" from 7:30 to 8:30 on chs. 3 and 4. Robert Fuller stars as Jess, Spring Byington and John Smith co-star.

Margaret Leighton stars in dramatic readings from the works of Dorothy Parker on "Festival of Performing Arts" on channel 5 from 8 to 9.

Hugh O'Brien and Bess Myerson are guest celebrities on "Password" from 8 to 8:30, chs. 2 and 10.

Howard Morris, Jack Carter and Joanna Moore star in a drama of two former college chums — one of whom was voted "most likely to succeed" on "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" from 8:30 to 9 on chs. 3 and 4. From 9 to 10 on "The Dick Powell Show" an all-star cast appears in the rerun of "Who Killed Julie Greer?"

It's the Phillies vs. Cincinnati from Crosley Field, Cincinnati on ch. 6 tonight starting at 8:30.

Inspired by the White House quest for antique furniture, Clem Kadiddlehopper (Red Skelton) carries an old rocking chair found in his barn to Washington on "The Red Skelton Show" from 9 to 9:30. Helen O'Connell and Roland Winters join in the fun as guest stars in "Rock on the Wild Side." Chs. 2 and 10. Next, from 9:30 to 10 on "Ichabod and Me" Bob Major (Robert Sterling) is proud of his son when he gets a part in the school pageant but becomes indignant when he learns the role is that of Benedict Arnold.

Don Knotts, featured as Deputy Barney Fife on "The Andy Griffith Show," temporarily forsakes his badge and uniform to portray a ticket salesman for a flop play when he joins the Duke Ellington orchestra and singer Denise Lor as guests on "The Garry Moore Show" from 10 to 11 on chs. 2 and 10. Miss Lor joins Garry, Duward Kirby and Carol Burnett in a sketch about long-standing friends spending a vacation together.

"Viet Nam — Last Chance," a full hour NBC News special examining the United States' involvement in Viet Nam, Laos and Thailand will be broadcast from 10 to 11 on chs. 3 and 4. NBC News correspondents Edwin Newman and James Robinson spent the better part of two months filming and interviewing people in South Viet Nam, Laos and Thailand.

Henry Morgan, Jean Shepherd, Antonino Rocca and Danny Scholl are guests on "Tonight" with Merv Griffin from 11:15 to 1 a.m.

Mike Wallace's guest on PM are folk singer Eddie Green, sleeves, Jackie Miles, Richard Rodgers and Cathy Godfrey. 11:10 to 12:40.

PMEA's Start Had Local Flavor

PENNSYLVANIA Music Educators Association, sponsors of the All-State Chorus concert at Stroud Union Saturday night, is a statewide organization of music educators of the schools and colleges in Pennsylvania.

It was organized for the purpose of promoting interest in school music, of advancing recognition of school music and for the promotion and sponsoring of music festivals, whereby students may gain unusual music experiences and contacts with others who enjoy the same things in life.

The PMEA is affiliated with the Music Educators National Conference and cooperate with the State Department of Public Instruction and the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Two of the pioneers in the early workings of this organization were Clement Wiedemeyer, head of the Music Department of the East Stroudsburg schools, and Maurice Taylor, of Montrose, and father of Gordon Taylor, Industrial Arts instructor in the Stroud Union high school.

Many steps forward have been taken since these two educators, along with many similarly interested teachers, formed the Pennsylvania School Music Association (PSMA), as the group was then called.

Nine districts in the state sponsor a chorus, a band, and an orchestra festival. Some districts sponsor two such events. This means that in the 1961-62 PMEA festivals approximately 500 high school musicians have been members of district orchestras, over 1500 chorists have participated in a district chorus, and about 2500 high school bandmen have had the thrilling experience of performing in a district band. Teachers from over 400 high schools belong to PMEA, preparing their students for festivals, and taking advantages of the many educational opportunities provided at the annual state convention held in Harrisburg early in December.

PMEA has student chapters in all the colleges of Pennsylvania which offer a degree in music. Some areas have had successful Junior high school festivals, and even county events are encouraged by the parent group.

This is the organization behind the All State Chorus, Region II, being held at the Stroud Union high school gym May 10, 11, and 12. Region II, comprising 12 of the 9 districts in the state set up, will have 53 schools represented in the chorus including 146 students.

Four other similar choruses will be preparing this weekend for their big performances Saturday night.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, May 8, 1962

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Planting, cultivating (vegetation, arts, education, everything uplifting), building, investigation, advancing, most matters, worth while can, with cautious deliberation, be undertaken.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Venus: Excellent aspect stimulates co-operation, appreciation of the best of the day, and reliability, especially where it is strongly needed. Jupiter can influence others to do better.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury advises against misjudgments depending upon others for information when you should be in a position to get your own, and to seek, and factors and set of rules. You should feel inspired.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — The combined configurations of Moon (your special planet), Mars and Mercury indicate need for more accuracy to avoid every-day errors that lead to bigger ones, and shunning rumor.

July 22 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't expect haste to do a good job for the day, increase tempo a gradual rate, doing only things you know you can accomplish well with out pressure, the sure way. Leo's smile on top!

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Take care in these reports, exploration, writings, actions, in action, or hearing along, secretarial work. Maintain order and system without being rigid or unsympathetic. Smoothly.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — These several vibrantly favorable Venus days should spur your first-flight abilities, fresh in-creases in revelation in nature, revolutionary: Just do not become over-zealous.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Some things appear to be different than yesterday or earlier. Take a closer, more thorough look at them AND your own attitude. This matters more than we recognize. Control, sympathy.

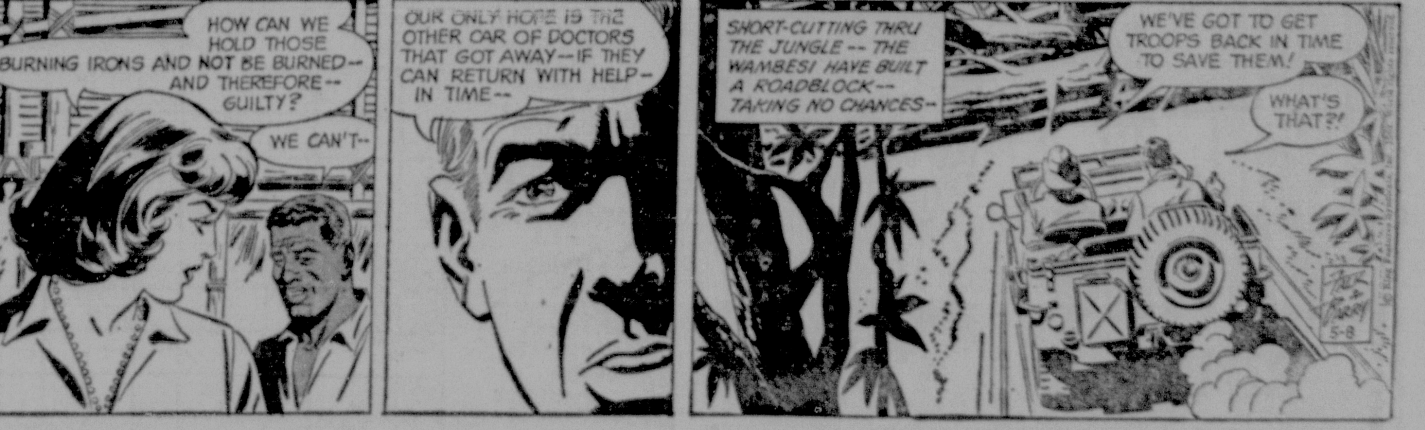

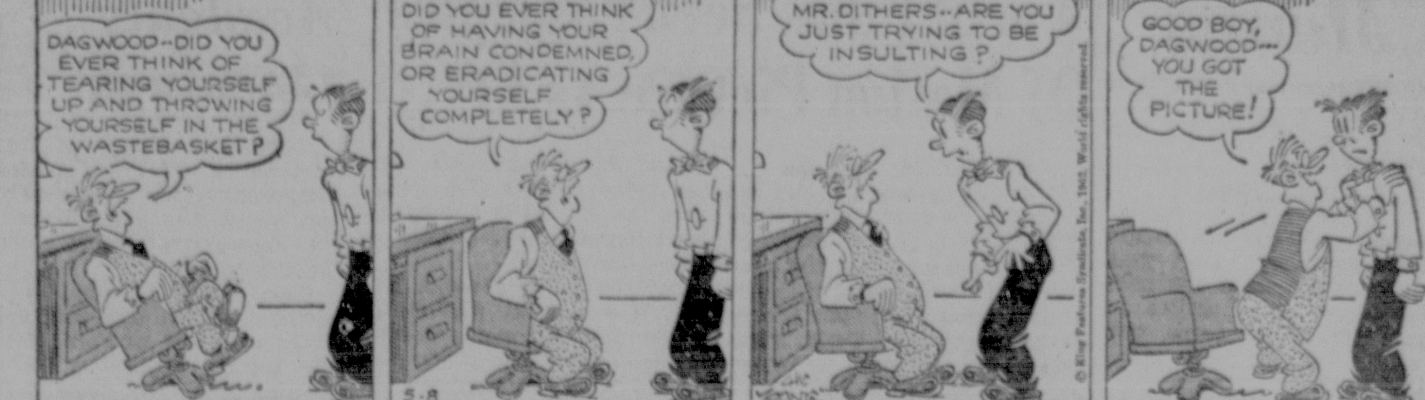

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — While you strive to make today count in every healthy, reliable way, also consider efforts upon and accommodations for tomorrow. Discard the unsavory quickly, don't let the unpleasant discourage.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Planet Saturn suggests fluctuating, changing opinions and plans. Be thoughtful, determined NOT to overthrow what is, proceed with caution, and do better with many unknowns.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — While you strive to make today count in every healthy, reliable way, also consider efforts upon and accommodations for tomorrow. Discard the unsavory quickly, don't let the unpleasant discourage.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — One of the dominantly auspicious days for Neptune this month. High time for revived ambition, vigor, schooling, well-grounded tactics, integrating new points. Motivating forces, intent.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You are a tower of strength when well-developed, and often the mainstay of family, community and work affairs. You like to be trusted, under which responsibility you thrive and so does the interest. Generally activated, rear, travel and some heavy new incidents and renewing of an old friendship offered. Think well before all actions and decisions, and think WITHOUT emotional involvement. You see true beauty in things, love nature and God's great world wonders; animals take to you, children instinctively trust you, you can soothe the elderly. Tremendous mental ability — put it to very thoughtful study and wise use always. Birthdate of: Francis Quarles, English poet, H. S. Truman, 33rd U. S. President; Henry J. Kaiser, industrialist.
